

Patrick S. Nolan

Partner

Patrick Nolan represents companies and individuals in product liability, toxic tort, professional liability, and personal injury claims throughout the United States and Canada. His multi-jurisdictional experience extends to all phases of the litigation process, from initial claim and fact investigation to civil discovery, trial, and appeal. Mr. Nolan also assists and advises clients in product recalls and regulatory questions that may arise before the Consumer Product Safety Commission and other regulatory agencies.

Although a substantial portion of Mr. Nolan's work involves the defense of product liability and personal injury claims, he also devotes a significant portion of his practice to indemnification and insurance coverage claims for firm clients. His insurance practice involves litigating various insurance coverage issues arising from general liability, directors and officers, errors and omissions, employment practices, and property-casualty insurance policies.
